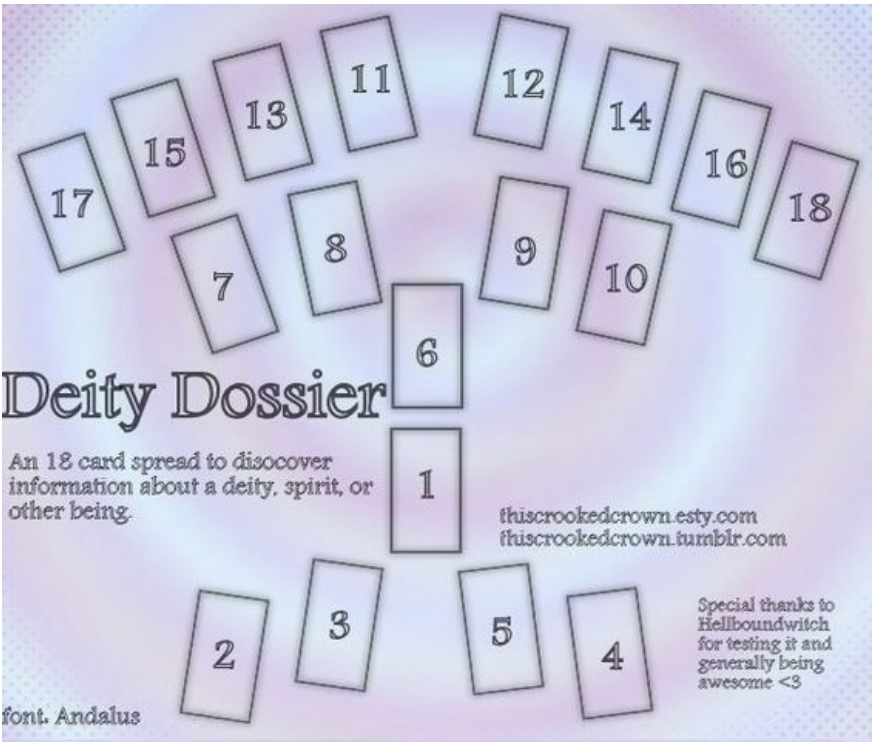
EMERALDLOTUS.CA



1 – Spirit or Significator. This represents the spirit, deity, or being in question. The card can be drawn or selected, depending on if you know the nature of the spirit or a card that could represent them.
2 – Past. These are past deeds or dealings the spirit has had with either other people or you that you should know about.
3 – Underlying Influences. Similar to Past, this represents influences that could be important to know. This may be an emotional thing rather than a past action. (Example, if previously betrayed by humans, a spirit is less likely to want to deal with humans.)
4 – Attitude and Thoughts or General Personality. General personality and/or how they think.
5 – Present. Their current status. If a spirit is in trouble, this information would appear here.
6 – Situation at Hand (optional). If there's a specific situation at hand, draw this card. (Example. A spirit asks for a large offering that would be very expensive – draw this card to see why it suddenly needs that offering.
7 – Health. The health of the spirit, deity, or being. (Example. A land spirit could be ill or ailing due to pollution.)
8 – Mind. Their mental health or, possibly, their overall mood.
9 – Physical. Their physical health or how they could physically manifest. This is especially useful for finding out what deity is contacting you.
10 – Things They Like to Do. This could be things they like to do for others, part of their sphere of influence, and/or things that could be used to connect with them or honor them. Think of this like hobbies or likes.
11 – What to Know. Things that are imperative for you to know. This could be used to see how working with this being could affect you in the future.
12 – What to Avoid. Things that are imperative for you to avoid doing. Example. If a spirit hates blood, don't give blood offerings. This could also be used to see how the spirit could negatively affect you in the future.
13 – Positive Influences. What is helpful? What will help your relationship with them? This can be something that is not in the spirit or deity's sphere of influence but still influences them. A deity might be one of fertility but their sibling could be a deity of war. That will somewhat play into how the spirit acts. Another example would be a spirit becoming powerful because a nearby coven is worshiping it.
14 – Negative Influences. Exactly as above, but the more negative side of things. What isn't helping this spirit? What will not help your relationship with them? Do they feel used or not appreciated? The examples above also apply.
15 – Conscious Desires. What they want. This could be offerings or a general goal. This may be what they want from you. If they have an agenda they'll admit to, it will be here.
16 – Unconscious Desires. This is what they want but won't admit to or what they don't know they want. If they have a hidden agenda, it will be here.
17 – Hopes. This can be a general list of hopes, a overall hope for the future, or what they hope to get from you.
18 – Fears. This can be a general list of fears, what they fear for the future,or what they're concerned about in regards of you or your life.

TAROT SIGNIFICATORS

When doing a reading, some Tarot readers like to choose and set aside a card to represent the Querent (the person they are reading for). This is called the significator. Other readers like to designate a card as the significator but leave it in the deck, and then apply special significance to it if it shows up in the reading. Some readers prefer not to use one at all. The choice is ultimately up to the reader and what works for them.

How to Create Tarot Spreads

STEP 1

Understand the Question & Goal

The question is straightforward - but the goal may be more complex. It represents the longer term, indirect desire that you have regarding the question. What is it that you or your client is really looking for?

STEP 2

Develop Positions

Your task will be to dissect the pieces of information you have into more specific questions, whose answers help you paint a clear picture of the situation. Broadly, I try to break down each question into three parts:

CIRCUMSTANCES

What do you have no control over?
What is hidden?
Who is involved?
What do I need to know?
How is your environment?
Where can I find help?
Where are opportunities?
How am I approaching the problem?
How do others perceive me?
Where in the journey am I?

Identifying the environment around your question.

UNDERLYING PROBLEM

What is blocking me?
What are the obstacles?
What is my true wish?
What is my ultimate goal?
What would make me happy?
What do I need to develop?
What can I change?
What are my strengths?
What are my weaknesses?
What is my biggest challenge?

Find the source of the problem.

SOLUTION

What advice do I need?
What can help me overcome?
What can I do?
Where is this leading to?
How can I use opportunities?
Where should I focus?
What do I need to let go of?
What do I need to learn?

Guide towards a solution.

STEP 3

Design Layout

Visually, you can lay out the cards in the shape of something that is related to the theme of the spread. If you're doing this on the fly for someone else, laying down the cards side by side shouldn't be an issue. Order is more important.

HOW TO STORE AND CARE FOR YOUR TAROT CARDS

Some people feel obligated to put their cards in special boxes or pouches, but their or no set rules. Just like their are not true set rules for tarot. Here are some ways to store and care for your cards for many years of use.

SPREAD CLOTH

Using a cloth on which you do your readings is the best way to reduce a lot of wear and tear on your deck. Surfaces of tables, mats and the like are often quite rough on the cards. Especially when you use those surfaces for giving your cards a good mix. I personally love using large fabric place mats from Bed Bath and Beyond, the discount or dollar store. I also think large scarves are also great as spread cloths. I have seen some beautiful discount scarves at Marshalls, TJMaxx and Walmart, Target, etc.

TAROT BAGS

There are a number of Tarot bags available in the market today. I personally love drawstring pouches and some of them have such amazing designs on them. Again, they are made out of a variety of materials ranging from your basic cotton cloth to velvet and available in many different sizes. I also use large pencil cases with a zipper, organza bags from any dollar, discount or party supply store, and also small purses from goodwill. You can even use a ziplock bag. It is up to you.

TAROT CARD BOXES

Just like the bags, there are a number of boxes out there in which you can store your Tarot cards. And they are made out of a variety of materials like wood or metal. They may be plain or have a lot of interesting designs on them as well. I always find beautiful boxes at flea markets for great prices.

TAROT DECK'S ORIGINAL PACKAGING

If you have any number of tarot decks, chances are you will have one or two 'working' decks, leaving the others pretty much untouched. It's a delightful habit to collect tarot decks and so many are left in their original boxes. As unglamourous as this is, your cards will be perfectly safe and cared for in this way. I work with a lot of my decks for readings as well as using them for spread design and tarot exercises. Many of them are kept in their original boxes and come out frequently with no harm to them at all.

TIPS WHEN READING TAROT AT A SPECIAL EVENT

Whether you are reading at a festival, bridal shower, new age store event, flea market or street fair, there are some things you should be mindful of to have the best experience possible.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR BODY

If you are reading on a hot day in the sun, wear protective clothing, a hat, and use sun screen. Keep a spritzer bottle of water nearby to cool yourself off on a hot day. Spray your neck and extremities often. I like to also have the spritzer bottles with the fan attached to them and keep ice water in it. Try not to wear black because it absorbs heat. Drink plenty of water, eat easy easily digestible food. Beverages with caffeine or alcohol can dehydrate your body.

TAKE BREAKS

I don't read for more than fifty minutes at one time. (About five ten minute readings) If I find myself in an all-day read-a-thon, I get up and walk around for ten minutes out of every hour. I stretch, go to the bathroom, get something to drink or whatever it takes to get my feet back underneath me. I believe in quality over quantity. Don't feel pressured to give x amount of readings if it is going to affect your health.

GROUND YOURSELF

I carry two boji stones in my pocket for grounding and an amethyst for spiritual connection. I also anoint my throat and third eye chakra with moldavite oil.

PROTECT YOURSELF

I protect myself from negative energies when reading in a crowd by visualizing a bubble of white and purple light around me. I say a prayer and ask that only positive energies come through, while negative energy is harmlessly deflected back into the earth. I also keep a smoky quartz, jet, and jade on my table or reading area.

TYPE OF READINGS

Usually for personal events such as bridal showers, I prefer to do a personal variation of the Celtic cross but when reading for a large crowd, such as fairs or festivals I usually will do a three to five card reading lasting ten minutes.

TAROT EXHAUSTION

Tarot can become exhausting for a number a reasons. Maybe you have many consecutive readings in a short span of time, your readings were highly emotional or charged, maybe you don't know how or have forgotten to ground yourself before a reading. Whatever the reason, here is some information to help you with Tarot Exhaustion.

PROTECTION

Think of this like a Tarot Condom. Some clients have more spiritual and emotional baggage than others. It is better to be safe first than sorry later. This can be in the form of a spiritual protection bubble, a crystal such as obsidian or quartz to help protect you from negative energy, or an amulet that you like wearing. So much of the time we as readers are on the receiving end of things that we forget that this heightened level of energy can cause us to utilize an unprecedented amount of energy. Before a Tarot reading, and in-between readings, imagine yourself surrounded by white light that is protecting you from any negative energy.

GROUNDING AND CENTERING

Grounding and centering is the absolutely essential first step for any energy working. It's the thing that makes sure you are pulling the energy from the Earth, instead of depleting your own resources.

AFFIRMATIONS

It can help to use affirmations, incantations, prayers or rituals before and after a Tarot reading. It doesn't really matter what you say, it's the intent that is important. I like to use : May I be surrounded with the highest good, giving me strength, energy, love, and an unbiased wisdom to help all that are involved.

RELEASE THE ENERGY

There are many ways you can release the energy between readings. I personally like to wash my hands, visualizing the soap cleaning up any lingering energy and burn some incense or cigar to neutralize the area.

MEDITATION

Meditation creates scared space in which we work. Even if you are alone, your work or reading space will be greatly enhanced by charging it with your meditation. Meditation is a good way to separate ourselves from what came before - our busy day, the commute to work, other people's energies, while preparing ourselves for what comes next. It literally gives us some "breathing space" and helps us regain our energy.

LISTEN TO YOUR OWN NEEDS

It is also a good idea to take a walk, get up, eat a snack, drink something, shake your body around, hug a tree, stretch. Your emotional, mental, spiritual and physical safety come first.

ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATIONS

If you have a good working knowledge of astrology, you may find more specific associations for the Minor Arcana interesting. As always, there are other systems of attribution. If you assign the four Aces to the seasons, thirty-six cards remain in the numbered cards of the minor arcana, nine per suit. Each of these coincides with ten degrees of the circle of the year, and each of these ten degrees is called a "decan." Since a sign contains 30 degrees, there are three decans to each sign. For example: the 2 of wands is attributed to the first decan of the sign Leo and runs 0-10 degrees. The second decan (3 of Wands) run from 11-20 degrees of Leo. And the third decan (4 of Wands) runs from 21-30 degrees of Leo. This pattern is repeated throughout all the signs.

TAROT AND DIVINATION SUPERSTITIONS

Every year more and more people use tarot decks for study, meditation, divination, game play, or self discovery, but there are still many common myths, misunderstandings, and simple untruths surrounding Tarot cards.

THE DEATH CARD MEANS YOU ARE GOING TO DIE

Contrary to popular belief, the death card can mean change. It may mean the end of one job, and the beginning of another. The end of a relationship and the opportunity for new love. Very rarely does the Death card actually mean death.

REVERSED CARDS ARE ALWAYS BAD

A reversed card could simply mean that the upright meaning is hard to grasp or blocked somehow. A reversed card does not have to be negative.

YOU MUST SLEEP WITH YOUR DECK

Although this is a great way to bond with your deck, this is just one way. You can carry your deck in your bag, sing to it, talk to it, take it on walks, so many ways you can connect with your deck.

YOU MUST KEEP YOUR TAROT DECK IN A WOODEN BOX

There are so many variations to this superstition. I've heard, it should never be a steel box. This supposed to help with "psychic contamination" This goes back to the wrapping in silk. It is all about personal preference.

YOU MUST NOT CROSS YOUR LEGS DURING A READING

This notion is from those who subscribe to the belief that someone who crosses their legs or any part of their body, is closing off themselves to the energy needed for the reading to be done successfully.

YOU MUST HAVE CANDLES, CRYSTALS AND INCENSE ON

This is all about personal preference. Some readers love the ambiance of crystals and candles. Some like to use incense to clear the space or set the mood. This is all about personal preference, not necessity.

YOU SHOULD NOT READ TAROT ON SUNDAY

You can read on any day of the week. It does not matter if you want to read at three in the morning on a Wednesday. If you want to read Tarot during that time, go for it.

YOU SHOULD NOT READ TAROT IF YOU ARE UPSET

You can read Tarot if you are upset, sick, doesn't matter Some people prefer to use gentler decks or oracle decks with inspiring and uplifting messages. It is again, all about personal preference.

TAROT READING PRICING

I believe that when it comes to Tarot Readings and divination in general there are always going to be three levels of pricing structures for the reader and the querent; Budget and low cost Tarot readings, Mid-range Tarot readings and the Premium Tarot reading.

BUDGET AND LOW COST TAROT READINGS

Budget and low cost Tarot readings are great if you are offering these for first time clients or as an introduction as a first time professional reader. The downside is that most querents will get used to your "budget" rate and you can potentially under-value yourself, which in turn will allow your clients to under-value you also. These budget readings usually price at an unspecified donation amount and up to $10.00. Keep in mind these rate range estimates depend greatly on the reader. Everyone is different. Before I started reading professionally, I read over 300+ people over the course of a year and a half for donations only.

MID-RANGE TAROT READINGS

For the Mid-Range Tarot readings these are usually readings given by professionals who have been reading for over five to ten years. This pricing structure seems to be the Golden standard for most readers at $30.00 - $60.00 a half an hour session. I feel like this pricing strategy is a conservative and well-balanced approach for most professionals. Much like the budget and low cost tarot readings, keep in mind these rate range estimates depend greatly on the reader. Everyone is different.

PREMIUM TAROT READINGS

Then you have the Premium Tarot Reading. These premium readings usually start at $100.00 an hour and up with readers integrating but not limited to a form of psychology, coaching, or spiritual study, etc into their readings, or offering a holistic service and may or may not be known to have celebrity clientele or only cater to a specific niche market. If you are planning on offering premium tarot readings, you should be aware that you need to deliver a premium reading experience. You simply cannot charge a premium rate and then only give a halfassed reading. You can potentially damage your reputation and any referrals you hope to receive.

A PLETHORA OF CHOICES

In the end you have endless choices when it comes to your rate. Your reading rate can be for time spent, by spread or by reading type. I personally prefer reading for time spent. It prevents a client from turning a six card spread into an hour reading marathon concerning every aspect of their life. Just remember price does not determine quality.

OVERSATURATION IS A MYTH

There is no such thing as an oversaturated Tarot reading market when we all have our own reading style and something different to offer. No two readings are alike. Pride yourself in being unique. There is only one you.

RECHARGING YOUR TAROT CARDS

MOON ENERGY BATH

Place the deck on your window sill where it can catch the Moonlight. The energies of the Moon can recharge the cards really well. The fool moon and New moon are great times for this. Moon energy is Feminine, Intuitive, Creative energy.

SUN ENERGY BATH

In this method, the cards are placed in direct Sunlight. Usually a couple of hours of being bathed in warm Sunlight does the trick for charging the cards! In comparison to the Moon, the Sun represents Masculine, Logical, Clarity-filled energy. With the Sun, there are no Phases to consider. You can charge your cards in a couple of hours and are pretty much good to go.

BREATH OF LIFE

In this method you hold your cards and envision a bright white light cocooning over your cards. envision any impurities and negative energies leaving and only power and light passing through the deck. Breath into your deck by placing your deck to your mouth and asking the deck for guidance, love, light and truth. Finally hold the deck to your heart for five heartbeats.

CRYSTAL CHARGING

In this method you place a crystal that calls out to you on top of the Tarot deck. I prefer Amethyst, Rose Quartz and Clear Quartz but any crystal will do. A quartz crystal is a wonderful absorber of energies and it is no bad thing to keep one with your Tarot whenever you store it away.

THE FOUR R'S OF TAROT

Reason:
What is the issue? Tarot can be used to demonstrate that underlying, subconscious forces are often at work. What old feelings are involved in the situation?

Resistance:
What is preventing you from dealing with the issue? Why hasn't it been solved yet? This card will force you to look at your shortcomings and give you the direction you need to be able to take action.

Reversal:
This card is the most important in the spread because its focus is on what ultimately needs to be done to turn the tide and free yourself from the problem. Tarot is there to offer a different perspective and force you to think things through sufficiently before making the leap into action.

Resilience:
Once you've taken the best possible action in order to solve the issue, what can you do to manage the consequences and make sure it doesn't end up happening again?
